As a nature and conservation photographer, I am inspired by the outdoors and God's creation. As I've traveled throughout NB I have been extremely fortunate to see several awesome birds of prey, migratory shorebirds, three kinds of whales, and so many spectacular sunsets.

One of the most unique places I've been to is Machias Seal Island to see Atlantic Puffins, also known as "clowns of the sea". Their sounds, personalities, and colours are something so uncommon. I tell people my visit was like taking a Canadian Safari.

My interaction with the bears in central New Brunswick was one of awe and admiration for such an amazing creature. The playfulness of the cubs was comic relief, but the demeanor of the parents is something that demands so much respect and reverence.

*All photos were taken from inside a blind or tree stand in order to protect us and the animals with a 400 mm lens (and then cropped).
